

THE COLUMBIAN, BLOOMSBURG, SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1866.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

APPROPRIATE—Mer(e)cur. P. M.—Poor man.

WILLIAM L. MADDOCK & Co., dealers in fine groceries, No. 115 South Third Street (opposite the Girard Bank), Philadelphia.

The road west of this town is lined for rods with fine growing cabbage. Those in want of genuine Pennsylvania "sour kraut" this Fall, had better consult the gardeners before long.

We are happy to announce that no serious difficulty is likely to arise between the President and Secretary McCulloch on account of the Secretary's refusal to purchase P. John and his "vigorous Union organization" at the price named by John, to wit fifteen hundred dollars. The President on reflection conveys in opinion with the Secretary.

OUR contemporary of the Republican will please accept our congratulations on his return to the walks of private life. To the President and Senate also we would tender our thanks for having relieved the Doctor of his official cares. At last he is happy; at least he says so in the Republican; and that the truth of what he says is attested by the amiable countenances of himself and his friends. They all feel good.

The following is the score of the match game played between the Shwanee Club of Plymouth, and the Continental Club, of this place. It will be seen that the Continentals came out far ahead of their opponents:

SHAWNEE	6. 6.
Corder	3 2 4.
W. L. Lance	8. 8.
D. Lanes	1st 6.
Wilson	20 6.
H. W.	1 1 6.
Disterish	c. L.
Total	27 58

Umpire—Mr. T. Taylor, of the Shwanee Club, Wilkesboro.

Score—2d model for the Shawnee, and D. J. Walker, Jr., for the Continental.

The Republican, after a year devoted mostly to the annihilation of Mr. Clark politically and personally, has at last discovered that that gentleman has no brains, and amounts to nothing. How stupid in the editor not to have known this before, or, having known it, how unjust to the public not to have announced it! It was no doubt the generosity of his nature that caused him to withhold the truth, Noble soul! It was only when Mr. Clark supplanted him in the office of Assessor that he consented to make the disclosure. Hereafter the readers of the Republican will not hear of "poor Bob Clark" through that paper. He is entirely too small game for the high and mighty Doctor.

The Conductors of our Young Folks announce that they have completed arrangements for adding as a new feature to their magazine a series of full page illustrations. These will be drawn by the first artists, engraved in the best manner, and printed upon fine tinted paper. Each number of the magazine will contain one or more of them. The first picture of the series, to be given with the September number, is "The Wanderers," designed by W. J. Hennessy. The colored illustrations, which were promised for the year, are now printing, and will be given in the November and December numbers. The first of these will be entitled "Florinda and Florindel;" the second, "The Old Man of the Mountain," designed by Alfred Fredericks.

The Atlantic Monthly for August offers a fine variety of interesting articles, "How my New Acquaintances Spin" is an interesting account of the silk-producing spiders of South Carolina—their discovery, habits, and uses,—by Dr. Wilder; "What did she see with?" is a very singular story founded on facts, well-known to the inhabitants of —, Massachusetts; "The Great Doctor, Part II," gives the conclusion of Miss Alice Cary's absorbing and touching story; "A Maniac's Confession," is the gossip of a book-lover about rare editions of famous authors; "Passages from Hawthorne's Note-Book" give continued sketches of Hawthorne's life in the Old Manor at Concord; from the "Chimney-Corner" Mrs. Stowe discourses of party-giving and party-going, and how to get out of both very gracefully and pleasantly; "London Forty Years Ago," contains John Neal's recollections of remarkable events, scenes, and persons in the English capital; "A Year in Montana" is a very entertaining paper, by Hon. Edward B. Neely, United States District Attorney of Montana, giving his observations of gold-mining and miners at Virginia and other points in the territory; Professor Agassiz contributes another graphic article on the Physical History of the Valley of the Amazon; "Griffith Gaunt" is continued; and fine poems are furnished by James Russell Lowell and Bayard Taylor. Ticknor and Fields, Publishers, Boston.

EUROPE.

Russia Decided Against Active Foreign Intervention in Germany.

NOTHING OF NAPOLEON'S NEGOTIATIONS.

VIENNA OPEN TO THE ENEMY AND THE PRUSSIANS EXPECTED IN THE CITY.

The Italians in Padua and Vicenza.

THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

In diplomatic circles at St. Petersburg it was declared that Russia had no present intention of abandoning its policy of neutrality, and that, only in case of any active intervention on the part of any foreign power in the German conflict, she would make known her declarations and take an attitude corresponding with her interests.

Nothing further has transpired concerning the negotiations between Napoleon and the contending powers. The London Times of the sixteenth of July says: Whatever force the Austrian Government may have succeeded in gathering around Venetia, it is still doubtful whether it will itself be equal to the task of withstanding the victorious Prussians, who, according to all calculations, should assemble before Venetia to-morrow or the day after. If anything was needed to render the Austrian position hopeless, it was the tidings of the irreparable disaster at Aschaffenburg, which must have reached Vienna.

General Chardin had occupied Padua and Vicenza, towns on the railroad to Venice.

The Austrians in Venetia, except those in Venice, thus had no railway communication with Vienna, so that unless Chardin be dislodged the Austrians cannot render aid in the impending battle with the Prussians.

The latest reports from the Great Eastern were quite favorable, steady progress being made.

On Sunday afternoon, fifteenth of July, she had payed out two hundred and eighty-three miles of the Atlantic cable, and had run a distance of two hundred and sixty-three miles from land.
